

Client: Legg Mason International Equities, Exchange Square, Appold Street, London

The Project

The design and fitting out of a floor in a brand new building in Broadgate including new furniture throughout.

Client Objectives

The relocation from Canary Wharf of a new division of Legg Mason, specialising in emerging markets, to a new location in the City of London. The new offices should have a boutique feel in line with the corporate guidelines defined by the US Group Company.

Key Facts

The reception and the interior were designed strictly in accordance with the US corporate guidelines by close liaison with the Design Team in Baltimore. The furniture (bench style in open plan areas) was selected on the same basis and the Client was able to benefit from the Group's global buying power with the furniture manufacturers.
